In Between Two

CONTEMPORARY ASIAN AUSTRALIAN PERFORMANCE

BRIEF SYNOPSIS:

Two trailblazing stars of the Australian music scene survey the forces that have shaped their way. TZU's Joelistics and ARIA-nominated producer James Mangohig are icons of Australian hip-hop, but their family histories are as complex and layered as their lyrics. Both half-Asian, their respective heritages are woven through their experiences growing up in Australia. From a nightclub-owning grandma in an open marriage to globetrotting parents with a political streak, the pair lovingly paint a canvas filled with failed proposals and religious strictures, casual racism and empowerment through music.

"This is a hip hop show unlike any other. An Australian narrative challenging how you think, how you feel about society and its moral fibre."

4.5 STARS – THE MUSIC

"The end result, which finds a beautiful balance between the personal and the political, the musical and the theatrical, is skilfully crafted and highly engaging."

4 STARS – ARTS HUB
